Nov. 29, 1937
Left Wash., D.C. 7.45 P.M.

Nov. 30 (Tue.)

Arrived Warren, Pa. 9.30 A.M.
(Train late), was met by Barry C. Park who is in charge of wild life work for Forest Service on the Allegheny National Forest.

Weather clear and rather cold - ground frozen - thawed
a little on surface during day.

As soon as I could change
we started out into forest and accompanied by Ranger <sup>Jack Mitchell</sup> ~~Harrell~~ we weighed and measured 18 bucks.

Dec. 1 (Wed.),

Trip in Allegheny National Forest from Warren and return.

Weighted & measured 31
deer. Largest weighed 200 pounds unviscerated.

Dec. 2 (Thurs),

Warren, Pa. Another day spent on weighing and measuring deer in Allegheny Nat Forest.

Deer. 18 only were weighed and measured today. Most of these were rather young.

Dec. 3 (Fri.)

Warren, Pa. About 20 deer
today. Was met by "Red" Fearnow, a regular employee.

Dec. 3 con.

of the Bureau of Fisheries, temporarily on deer work - and about 20 deer were hauled.

Dec. 4 (Sat.).

Warren, Pa. Was met by one Fearnow's men in his absence, and spent the day with him and Ranger Mitchell of the Forest Service.

Deer. - Hauled about 20.
Finished quota of 50 for Bear Creek area.

Weather. - Cloudy today and thawing slightly.

Hunters. - Hundreds of hunters out, some of them strolling along roads or edges of woods and others visible

ported at many points off the roads. They are a picturesque lot in red caps and jackets and pants of thick wool red in color with black checks or stripes. A good many Swedes and some Italians are evident racial elements. Cars often run a dozen grouped in a place. Many deer are reported but while large numbers of bucks in the aggregate are killed many hunters are failing to find a buck.

Deer. A good many of those handled appear to be  $1\frac{1}{2}$  -  $2\frac{1}{2}$  years old. They vary considerably in color, some being quite red. In some cases the hair on top of head seems to be grayer and appears to represent the summer pelage. Certain markings appear to be characteristic. There is usually a conspicuous white line between the toes on the hind feet and fore feet and white areas are present behind and below the dew claws. The breast is blackish sometimes with a narrow white line along the center.

Dec. 5 (Sun)

Warren, Pa. Remained in town all day.

Weather. Snowed steadily all day, but so warm that most of the snow melted.

Dec. 6 (Mon.)

Warren, Pa. Made a trip with Jack Hitzel over northern end of Allegheny Forest & we obtained measurements and weights of only 5 deer. Snow falling and weather stormy. In contrast with Saturday very few hunters out.

Dec. 7 (Tue.)

Warren, Pa. Another trip with Jack. Weather stormy - only 4 deer.

December 8 (Wed.)

Warren, Pa. Park returned last night and trip made today with Ed. Fearnow of Bureau of Fisheries. Weather very stormy - no deer at all.

Dec. 9, Thurs.

Warren, Pa. Prepare to return to Washington. Weather has cleared somewhat and is very cold.
Left Warren for Wash.,
8.10 P.M.

Dec. 10, Fri.
